

MOVE TO KILL ANTI-POLITICS MEASURE FAILS

Senate Refuses to Turn Broadening Legislation Back

STATE, FEDERAL WORKERS ARE HIT

Efforts to Permit "Voluntary" Activities
Are Killed

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 15. —
The senate cleared the way today for final passage of legislation broadening the Hatch anti-politics law by refusing to return the legislation to committees for further study.

Senator Hatch (D-NM) said that if the bill had been recommitted
"it would have been dead for this session." The recommittal proposal was offered by Senator Lucas (D-Ill).
It was rejected 52 to 31.
Supporters of the broadening legislation had won a major test a short time before when the senate approved 47 to 30, a key section for bidding political activity by state workers paid partly from federal funds.

Previous efforts to modify the provision to permit "voluntary" political activity had failed. Today's was the first direct senate vote on the restriction itself.

Retain Solid Front
Republicans, remaining consistent in their stand for the broadening legislation, voted solidly to apply the restriction to state-federal employees.

Earlier, Senator Hatch (D-NM)
author of the legislation had accepted an amendment by Senator
Brown (D-Mich) to make it clear that the bill would not affect state employees paid solely with state
funds.

Senator Thomas (D-Okl.) attacked the constitutionality of the bill, saying that it contained an unauthorized delegation of power to the civil service commission. The legislation provides that the commission shall make rules defining "pernicious political activity."

Indicates Approval
The vote on the key section did not mean in itself that the legislation actually had been approved, although it indicated eventual approval. Due to the parliamentary procedure under which the bill was being considered several sections were subject to separate consideration before the final vote.

Another congressional controversy, that over inclusion of personal income questions in the census, had the attention of President Roosevelt today.

Hitler Puts The Blitzkrieg On Balkan Economic Area

Real Victor In Baltic War, He Turns Attention To Rebuilding Sources of Supplies

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Fuehrer Hitler is moving quickly to capitalize the smashing victory he won when he forced a Russo-Finnish peace, thus forestalling a "babes in the woods" developing Anglo-French intervention which would have opened up a new battle-front against him and caused havoc with his war plans.

With that grave danger dismissed, he has started to repair his damaged economic Siegfried line in the Balkans, where Allied gold and influence have been raising hob with his sources of supplies. He has been banking much on the products of this rich area to help him win the war.

Puts Blitzkrieg On Politics
The ink wasn't dry on the peace treaty before the Nazi chieftain was applying his blitzkrieg methods to the political situation. It is understood that he already has extracted from Russia a promise to keep hands off Roumania.

That is a development of prime importance. It is calculated to enable the Nazis to win Roumania away from the Allies, which would represent another triumph for Hitler.

Naturally the Nazi leaders first thoughts were for Roumania. Not only is it the source of vast quantities of grain but of the only large supply of petroleum which he has thus far been able to tap.

The Allies, whose nationals are the largest owners of the wells, have been using the big-stick on Roumania to prevent shipments to the Reich. One line of pressure they are said to have used on King Carol was that they might reconsider their promise to assist him in event of invasion.

The Soviet is supposed to have had a long eye on her former province of Bessarabia which Roumania secured at the end of the World war. Carol has been maintaining a great fear of an attack. Hence the importance of Hitler's move in securing the Russian promise to let the Roumanians alone.

Demobilizes Farmers
Roumania already has started to demobilize agricultural workers from the army, and this is taken to be a response to the Nazi promise to protect the country from aggression in return for a real effort to meet the Reich's need for supplies. It is estimated that farmers constitute about half of King Carol's army at present.

Nazidom also is busy trying to win back the rest of the Balkans. These important states are in a most uncomfortable position, being squeezed between the Germans, who want to keep this great area open for supplies, and the Allies, who want to cut it off from the Reich. The release of Russia from the Finnish war has made the Balkans even more wary of challenging Herr Hitler.

The cold fact is that the Balkans, while wanting Allied gold and wishing to be free of German politico-economic control, are afraid of the armed might of Germany.

It will be interesting to see what the Allies do, if anything about opening up a new war front against Hitler in the Balkans, now that the chance to intervene in the Baltic has slipped away. It won't be very profitable for them if he is able to regain his prestige and flow of supplies in that great area.

REDS TO SET UP RUSSIAN STATE IN CEDED ZONE

U. S. S. R. Supreme Soviet Is Convoked For
March 29

FINNISH TROOPS
LEAVING FRONTS

100,000 Dispossessed Civilians Hurry Ahead
Of Soldiers

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, March 15.—Immediate organization of ceded Finnish territory into an autonomous Soviet Socialist state republic was considered today to be the principal task of the Supreme Soviet of the U. S. S. R. convoked for March 29.

The summons to the parliament, coming three days after the peace treaty, led informed observers to predict that after formal ratification of the pact the Supreme Soviet would act speedily to establish Communist rule in what the government newspaper Izvestia termed a former "anti-Soviet war base."

Isthmus To Be Split
This reference to the Karelian isthmus, where Finland bore the brunt of the Russian assault, prompted one observation that war-torn Finnish land would be strategically split. The isthmus would be assimilated by the Leningrad military district, according to the view, and the remainder of the ceded territory, the northern shores of Lake Ladoga and eastern central Finland, would be incorporated into the existing Karelian Soviet republic, northeast of the isthmus itself.

In the absence of official comment, however, most observers predicted one separate republic would be created for the occupied areas.

In demanding concessions on the isthmus, pre-war negotiators for Moscow pointed out that Leningrad, less than 30 miles from the former Finnish frontier, was within artillery range of the Mannerheim line. Leningrad, moreover, was the seat of the Finnish campaign.

In keeping with the policies of Nikolai Lenin, father of the Russian revolution and Joseph Stalin, his successor, the formation of a Soviet republic in the ceded Finnish areas would promise local self-government and preserve the language and cultural institutions of these regions.

Finns Move Back
HELSINKI, March 15.—The Finnish army slogged through the snows today in funeral retreat, beginning its withdrawal from the fronts it so stubbornly defended in three and one-half months of war but which now are ceded to Soviet Russia.

Ahead of the soldiers there hurried 100,000 dispossessed civilians. They traveled by automobile, wagon and train or on foot, herding their livestock before them and carrying bundles that were the salvage of personal property.

These 700,000 bring to about 460,000 the number who must find new homes. A half-million persons already are refugees, but 140,000 of them are from battered territories which Finland retains and to which they will be able to return.

While the Red army held its positions, marking time until Finnish troops have fallen back the required several kilometers (about four and one-half miles) in one day, the Finnish withdrawal started at 10 a. m. along a zigzag 226-mile front on the southeast, extending from the Virolahti archipelago on the Gulf of Finland to the Russian frontier northeast of Lake Ladoga.

Vigorously attacking Communism, R. A. Beyer of Ambridge, Pa., Pennsylvania I. O. O. F. state encampment officer, gave an interesting talk on world conditions of today when he addressed a district Odd Fellows gathering here last night.

With Amity lodge No. 124 as host in the I. O. O. F. hall, 100 persons were present, representing lodges in Alliance, Lisbon, Letonia, Columbus, Sebring, Washingtonville and Danvers.

Beyer, whose hobby it is to keep abreast of world conditions, charged that Communism was doing all possible to undermine Americanism.

Music on the program was provided by a boys' trio composed of Virgil Stamp, Frank Davis and Alex Simon, accompanied by Gerald Fickes. Group singing was led by W. F. Davis.

Probate Judge H. W. Hammond was a guest. Lunch was served.

DELEGATE LIST IS INCOMPLETE

State Democratic Organization Encounters Difficulties

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, March 15.—Completion of a national convention delegate slate presented new difficulties to the state Democratic organization only a few hours before today's 6 p. m. deadline for filing nominating petitions for the May 14 primary.

Charles Sawyer, national committeeman and "favorite son" presidential candidate, expected to file his list of 16 delegate-at-large candidates yesterday, but two of them failed to send in their petitions.

Sawyer and Heer Disagree
Meanwhile, Sawyer and Walter F. Heer, Franklin county chairman, were reported to have disagreed over the selection of 12th district delegate-candidates. Heer was said to have refused to name delegates suggested by Sawyer and to have told the national committeeman "we're not interested in a Sawyer slate."

Some political observers speculated over the possibility that Heer might enter in the 12th district an opposition slate pledged to someone other than Sawyer as a "favorite son" but still agreed to support President Roosevelt should he seek renomination.

The organization slate also would support Roosevelt at the national convention.

Meanwhile, the Republican state organization filed a slate of eight delegates-at-large each with a full convention vote pledged to Sen. Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati as "favorite son."

On The List
On the list were Gov. John W. Bricker, State Chairman Ed D. Schorr, David S. Ingalls, of Cleveland, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth of Cincinnati, Grove Patterson of Toledo, former Gov. Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, John E. Galvin of Lima and Lawrence C. Payne of Cleveland.

The alternate-at-large were Wade Deswoy of Akron, Mrs. Blanche M. Bowman of Bellevue, Albert Dalton of Fairview Village, Cuyahoga county; Mrs. Margaret A. Barnes of Oberlin, Mrs. Mary R. Mercer of Bowling Green, Evan M. Chase of Toledo, John T. Brown of Madison county, and Robert S. Beightler of Columbus.

Dr. Linn was graduated from Salem High school in 1909 and from the dental school of the University of Pittsburgh at 1913. He opened his dental practice in Youngstown, coming to Salem in 1920. He practiced here until 1932, then went to New York where he was associated with Dr. A. E. Sweeney.

Dr. Linn served during the World war with the hospital corps as a first lieutenant at Camp Sherman and as dental commander at Camp Merril, N. J.

He is survived by two sisters, Miss Hazel F. Linn and Mrs. Winifred Hill of Salem, and several nieces and nephews including Dr. David Linn of Salem.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

THREE WEAPONS ARE SHARPENED

Mobilizes Colonies; Will Drive Nazi Securities
from Marts

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, March 15.—Great Britain brought three new weapons into her economic front line today to meet the threat of a German-Russian-Italian bloc aimed at capturing her trade.

Her effort was intended to fortify the British position in the economic struggle by increasing her reserves of foreign exchange for purchases of war supplies, mobilizing the resources of the British and French overseas empires and driving German securities from British money markets.

Sees Further Sacrifices
As Britain pulled in her belt another notch, The Times of London forecast the likelihood of further sacrifices, emphasizing the need of "diverting from civilian consumption something like half of the whole current production in order to devote it to winning the war."

These were the three new British measures:

1. To tighten its hold on foreign exchange, the government banned private importation of canned and bottled fruits, beginning next Tuesday.

Only the ministry of food will be permitted to buy these products abroad but the effect on British supplies is not expected to be felt immediately since large stocks have been accumulated recently. In 1938 more than $14,000,000 worth was imported from the United States.

Organize Colonial Cooperation
2. To organize British-French colonial cooperation in order to utilize all of both empires' resources for the war effort, it was learned, Malcolm MacDonald, colonial secretary, will confer in Paris soon with Georges Mandel, French minister of colonies.

3. Large-scale selling in Britain of securities, chiefly negotiable bonds on behalf of German interests, was disclosed in a stock exchange warning to members to "exercise greatest caution in accepting and executing orders, the real source of which they are not able to verify beyond all reasonable doubt."

Such sales are subject both to stock exchange disciplinary action and stringent penalties under the law forbidding trading with the enemy.

Pemberville Pastor Is
Chief Speaker At Annual Banquet

Breeders and fanciers of horses from Columbiana, Mahoning and neighboring counties attended the annual banquet of the Columbiana-Mahoning County Draft Breeders' association Thursday night in the Masonic temple. One hundred and seventy-five persons were present.

Wilbur T. Coy of Salem served as toastmaster, with John Strausbaugh of Lisbon, assistant Columbiana county agricultural agent, as program chairman.

Invocation was given by Rev. William Alexander of Pemberville, principal speaker, who gave a humorous talk entitled, "The Search For Happiness."

L. P. McCann, animal husbandry extension specialist of Ohio State university, spoke briefly. He called upon the horse breeders to have faith in their business and explained that the market for draft horses was holding steady.

Plans for a membership drive in the near future were discussed by members of the bi-county association.

Musical entertainment at the banquet was provided by the Bell family of near Salem.

Arrangements for the affair were made by a committee comprising Coy, A. D. Allen and Thomas Richards.

Chicagoan Is Held On License Count

Salem State Patrolman E. K. Jones took into custody at Lisbon yesterday a man who gave his name as Emanuel Marsh, 32, a Chicago salesman.

Marsh, who was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to the Lisbon village jail for five days until the state patrol could complete an investigation, was arraigned before Justice Claude E. Albright in Lisbon on a charge of driving without an operator's permit.

Patrolman Jones said Marsh, who was arrested at a hotel where he attempted to change his name on the hotel register when confronted by the officer, had two automobiles, both with improper license plates.

One car, the officer said, bore the license plates belonging to another vehicle, while a cardboard imitation of a license was on the other vehicle. On top of that, the salesman had no driver's license.

FINLAND PROVES "SENSIBLE"

Compared with former mishandling by invaders, Finland's apparently orderly settlement of its war with Russia is almost a triumph. It has lost territory and sovereign prestige, but it retains its political independence—at least for the present.

As a German spokesman put it, the Finns have proved "sensible." Confronted with a choice between a war they couldn't win and concessions greater than those they wouldn't make at the outset of war, they have chosen to quit fighting while they still could make terms with the enemy.

Why, then, did they fight in the first place? Apparently, they counted on assistance, which wasn't forthcoming. The allies they hoped to gain from resisting Russia didn't materialize. Their government, like the governments of Ethiopia and Poland, counted on outside assistance and was left holding the bag.

The impact of this thrice-repeated lesson on other weak governments cannot be overestimated. It may be imagined that when their time comes to prove "sensible" in the presence of the mailed fist they will remember the experiences of Ethiopia, Poland and Finland. Great Britain and France have lost diplomatic face, to say nothing of military advantage.

Collective security, which began to be a doubtful source of protection when Japan invaded Manchuria, has been blown sky high. There isn't any such animal. Perhaps there never was, but governments that had something to gain from thinking so clung desperately to the illusion.

They know now that the thing they hoped was going to guarantee the security of small countries against big ones was wishful thinking—something they believed because they wanted it to be true. The law of big dog eat little dog never was repealed; they were naive to think it had been.

The disillusionment of the weak is complete. Might makes right in international relations. Perhaps it always did, but for a few short years the weak nations dared to dream it was going to be different.

FAVORITE SON

New Hampshire, first state to hold a presidential preference primary, gave all its Democratic delegates to a candidate whose initials are F. D. R. and all its Republicans to Sen. Styles Bridges, a native son.

Here is an interesting situation. Sen. Bridges is only an outside possibility for his party's presidential nomination. He is just New Hampshire's favorite son.

The man whose initials are F. D. R. is also a favorite son, in the sense that he can claim the votes of New Hampshire's Democratic delegates only until they find something else to do with them.

This is a point about the Democratic dilemma that hasn't been fully appreciated. Whether or not Franklin D. Roosevelt wanted to be president of the United States for three terms, whether or not he was lifting his finger for that purpose, the situation in his party would cause him to be used exactly as he is being used—as a rallying cry for party organizers. It's not the third term that makes the Democratic party talk Roosevelt but the party's failure after seven years in power to produce another name that means anything to voters.

STANDING AND DELIVERING

The deadline for standing and delivering to Caesar that which belongs to Caesar has been reached for approximately 3,500,000 Americans.

If certain determined gentlemen had their way there would be several million more, not for the sake of the taxes they would pay, but to teach them that no one evades the cost of government.

If it would be a cheap lesson, if it could be taught. On the basis of returns for previous years about three-fourths of all taxable returns this year will show net incomes of less than $5,000. This overwhelming majority of taxpayers will pay, however, only six percent of the revenue.

Fifty-six percent will be paid by five percent of the income taxpayers—those with net incomes of more than $50,000. The other 38 percent will come from persons with net incomes between $5,000 and $50,000. In other words, the quickest way to teach small fry the grim lesson that no one can evade the consequences of billionitis is to get rid of the big income group that stands between an expensive government and himself.

It's a tender thought for income tax deadline day.

REQUIEM

It was, the Russian spokesmen gloat, a great victory, well worth the price.

First item on the bill is 250,000 Russian corpses left in the snow, according to estimates of foreign military observers. Second item is 250,000 wounded men. Finland, with fewer men to waste, lost 30,000 and perhaps as many more wounded. But the Finns, of course, don't count because they were on the other side.

It may be written that the men who fought did not hate one another. They killed and were killed because at an instant in their lifetimes a man decided that a few hundred thousand men dying wouldn't be too much to pay for a few thousand square miles of territory which he had come to believe were needed in his business.

Comrade Stalin's business is running Russia to suit himself. It used to belong to a dignitary called the czar, but he couldn't please the stockholders.

Maybe parts of Shenandoah, Pa., heard about the war and decided to duck under ground before the bombing started.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, March 16

PARTICULARLY lively and sudden events may be expected on this day, with many developments of a surprising character. These will be attended by much doubt and perplexity because of side issues that are treacherous, subtle and even sinister. Be alert to all sorts of schemes, plots, illicit involvements and snares as well as open hostility or attack. There might be accidents, fires, theft or disaster. The private life is also afflicted, but over all are factors for progress and definite gain and good fortune.

Those whose birthday it is have a rather complicated year with which to cope. While there is augury of positive success, progress and increased possessions and finances, won by enterprise, ability, originality and creative genius, there also are pitfalls and plots of malicious and sinister intent. Beware of deception, subtle and open hostility, fraudulent entanglement and also sudden physical dangers. Be careful with the signature and all writings.

A child born on this day may have much versatility, originality and creative ability, with aggressiveness and ingenuity, but it may be carried away by temperamental and emotional stresses.

One of our exchange paragraphers says: "The evening was spent in an infernal way, a radio program being the main diversion." We think we must have heard that same program.

A person deserving of much sympathy is one who has a secret they can't afford to tell.

The Hatch act may make it difficult for some of the Democrats to bury the hatchet.

Count the day lost whose low descending sun sees no new candidacy begun!

The headlines say: "Who Believes the Bolsheviks?" It could be Hitler.

Check Now Against Rickets, Leading Disease Of Spring

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

HAVE YOUR children been examined carefully this spring? It has been a hard winter and they have probably been getting less sun and exercise than usual. Be sure that they haven't any signs of the great spring disease of children, which is rickets.

Rickets is a disease peculiar to childhood. It is caused by lack of vitamin D, which is manufactured in the body by exposure to sunlight. It can usually be prevented or cured by the use of food products containing the vitamin. Vitamin D is fat-soluble and is, therefore, found in oils, particularly fish-liver oils—cod-liver oil, halibut-liver oil, salmon-liver oil, etc. It can also be obtained in an artificially irradiated vegetable oil.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Children vary, however, in their need for vitamin D. They vary, therefore, in their need for sunlight and for cod-liver oil. Those with dark skin, particularly, need more because the dark skin filters out the sun rays which produce vitamin D. Even if a child has had protective measures during the winter. It is well to think of these variations and to examine all of them under your care, especially for rickets.

Nutritional Disease Rickets is a nutritional disease which affects, particularly, the bones and the digestive apparatus.

The first symptoms may be slight digestive disturbances, so slight as hardly to be thought worthy of notice. The appetite is finicky; there are little attacks of regurgitation of food and diarrhea; the stools are clay-colored and offensive. The weight, however, may mysteriously remain stationary.

Attacks of sweating, especially sweating around the head, are significant. If the child's pillow is wet in the morning, it means something. The sweating attacks recur during sleep, and sometimes to gain relief the child kicks off the bed clothes and catches cold.

More Than Pills and Powders

There is more to a prescription than its physical appearance... more, even, than an analysis of it would show. Each and every prescription contains two unseen ingredients—the skill of the doctor and the integrity of the pharmacist. Without them, pills and powders would have little or no medicinal value.

The rickety child is tender. (I am speaking now of the early stages of rickets.) The bones have not grown properly and lifting or changing position may cause a crying spell and a reaction of irritation out of all proportion to the amount of disturbance.

Late Stage Symptoms

Of course, in the later stages, when you have a fully developed case, the diagnosis is easy. The child looks pale, the eyes protrude and the whites are chalky white. The abdomen is distended and the chest shows the series of enlargements at the junction of the ribs and the rib cartilages known as the "rachitic rosary." The spine may show a curvature and the breast-bone sticks outward.

Treatment should be based upon the liberal use of properly standardized cod-liver oil. By "properly standardized" is meant cod-liver oil which meets the standards of the U. S. Pharmacopeia. There should be exposure to sunshine and fresh air. The child should not be allowed to walk or crawl until it is certain that the bones are strong enough and that deformities will not result. Besides this, plenty of good food of all varieties, fresh in character, should be administered.

Betty Field and Jackie Cooper in the leading roles of "Seventeen" by Booth Tarkington at the State Saturday only.

Last performances here of "Gone With the Wind", technicolor screen epic of the pre-war south, will be seen at the State tonight. Vivian Leigh as Scarlett, Clark Gable as Rhett Butler, Olivia DeHavilland as Melanie and Leslie Howard as Ashley Wilkes head the cast of the picture which has been shown throughout the week to large audiences.

Saturday's feature at the State will be Booth Tarkington's famous story of youth and its trials, "Seventeen", with Jackie Cooper in the leading role.

Cooper, one of the few child stars whose teen years have not brought an eclipse to his career, turns in a performance that should put him on top among extra-special young players.

Young Betty Field, one of the most versatile young actresses in the business, recruited from "What a Life" and "Of Mice and Men" to play the heartless flirt in the Tarkington romance, makes her bid for stardom.

Others in the cast are Ann Shoemaker and Otto Kruger as Willie Baxter's long-suffering, always hopeful parents; Norma Nelson as his troublesome kid sister; and Peter Hayes as Willie's hated rival for the affections of Lola Pratt, 17-year-old Chicago siren with a past.

ASH HAT MILLINERY SPECIALISTS

EASTER, always the signal for the appearance of new Easter hats for the American ladies, has long been accompanied by the trembling anticipation of the American male. In the past few years, he has succumbed silently, though unwillingly, to the Eugene Tricorne, the Baby Bonnet, the Sky-scraper Crown. By this time, he has been through most of the pernicious forms of Millinery Madness, as evidenced by his female tormentors, and is ready for just about anything.

Brick Firm Workers Guilty of Contempt

LISBON, March 15.—Two employees of the Summitville Face Brick Co. at Summitville were found guilty of contempt of court at a hearing before Judge W. F. Lones this morning and were placed on six months' probation.

The pair, Harold McCurry and Clifford McKarns, were cited together with F. H. Johnson, plant owner, and H. K. Lynn, superintendent, for contempt of a court order issued last May restraining pickets, as well as employees, from acts of violence at the strike-troubled plant.

Today's hearing followed a clash near the plant Feb. 29 when a group of about 35 men came out of the plant, allegedly ordered the pickets away and burned their tent. The pickets' sign and one bearing the court injunction order were torn down, it was disclosed at today's hearing.

Counsel for Johnson testified he was not at the shop at the time and that Lynn, the superintendent, was in his office and unaware that the men were leaving the plant.

Verdict for $370

LISBON, March 15.—A jury in the common pleas court returned a verdict Thursday afternoon in favor of Mrs. Maude Swartz of Madison township, awarding her $370 for her services in caring for the late James S. Windram of Madison township.

The trial, in which Mrs. Swartz demanded $1400 from Harry Windram of Salem, as administrator of the estate of his father, James S. Windram, opened before Judge W. F. Lones on Tuesday.

The jury deliberated almost three hours in returning a verdict in favor of both the plaintiff and the defendant, with a total finding of $514. There was found to be $144 due the defendant from the plaintiff and $370 due the plaintiff from the defendant.

Syndicate Denies Purchasing Yanks

NEW YORK, March 15.—The New York Yankees, a nice bauble in financial as well as baseball figures are for sale but it looks like they will be at the same old stand for the same owners when the American league season opens next month.

There was quite a scurry yesterday over reports that Governor Francis P. Murphy of New Hampshire had virtually completed a deal for a syndicate.

The governor admitted that he had inquired into the possibility of the sale but denied that negotiations were underway or that he had submitted an outright proposition.

So all that the flame-fanning yesterday accomplished was smoking out an admission from the Yankee officials that the club could be had for a satisfactory sum.

Early Leaders Continue On Top In City Bowling Tourney At Grate Lanes

Salem News Remains In First Place With 2,899 Score Posted Tuesday Night; Floding & Reynard Drugs Take Over Fifth

Early leaders held their positions as the five-man event of the fifth annual City Handicap Tenpin tournament neared its close today.

The team competition will be completed at the Grate Recreation alleys tonight, clearing the way for the start of doubles and singles firing next Monday.

Twelve squads, the last of a record entry of 53 teams, are scheduled for action on the closing program of the five-man event. Among the teams scheduled to take the alleys tonight is the Salem Eagles road team, one of the city's leading tenpin outfits.

News Holds Lead

The Eagles will be out to better the Salem News' 2,899 score which currently ranks as the best in the tournament. The News posted its high score on the opening night of the five-man event and it has continued to stand at the top of the heap, despite heavy firing Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Fifteen teams blasted away at the mallets at the Grate lanes last night, but none was able to approach the News' leading score. The best mark of the third night of the tournament was chalked up by the Floding & Reynard Drugs of the Quaker City league, who hit 2,738 to take over fifth place in the standings.

Alfred 128 free pins a game, the Drugs turned in games of 877, 943 and 976. Dick Albright, secretary of the Quaker City league, paced the Floding & Reynard keggers with a 523 series.

The Colonial Finance, leading team of the Quaker City league, moved into seventh position with a 2,757 score, including a 222-pin handicap. Led by Charles Huffer, who rang up a 580 series, the Finance rolled games of 922, 956 and 879.

Also In Money

Two other teams worked their way into the prize list, the Salem Label Co. taking over 10th place with a 2,740 score and People's Lumber moving into 12th position with a 2,720 score. Clyde Miller led the Label Co. with a 570 series, while "Pat" Boen was high for People's Lumber with 527.

Included in the Lumbermen's 2,720 total was a 1,011 single game, which ranks as the highest rolled in the tournament to date.

Other team scores last night were Kelly's Service, 2,670; Jaycee All Stars, 2,660; Famous Dairy, 2,659; London V-8's, 2,661; Trades Class, 2,644; Columbiana Trade Club, 2,640; Electric Furnace Office, 2,532; E. W. Bliss Co., 2,546; Ohio Edison, 2,525; Salem Eagles "B," 2,533; Ohio Edison Dodgers, 2,524.

UNBEATEN CAGE TEAMS SURVIVE OPENING GAMES

McKinley, Woodward and New Philly Among Winners

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, March 15.—Ohio's quartet of unbeaten High school teams are still among the 16 battling for the state basketball championships, but three of them must feel lucky to be answering today's bell.

Canton McKinley, Cincinnati Woodward and New Philadelphia in Class A, and Smithfield of Jefferson county in Class B, are the only unbeaten squads among the 157, 1,151 which started the campaign, but only the Canton club had an easy time surviving the firing yesterday when the chips were down in the championship scrap.

McKinley bowled over Martins Ferry in easy fashion, 48 to 23, but Woodward was forced to overcome a 13-8 deficit at halftime to beat Canton 21 to 19; New Philadelphia needed a last-minute surge to come from behind to nose out Bellevue 34 to 31, while Smithfield had to outscore Germantown 9-3 in the closing quarter to erase a three-point disadvantage and win.

The first round games were decided strictly on form with the exception of Akron Buchtel's 26-24 win over Defiance. Buchtel had been beaten five times in 17 starts, while Defiance had bowed but once in 22 games.

While the undefeated squads had their eye on the state titles, practically all the spectators had their eye on Ken Huddleston, tall center for Dayton Fairview. Kenny splashed 22 points into the hoop yesterday in a 43-22 win over Toledo Waite, missing the all-time tourney scoring record by three points.

Huddleston gets another chance today, against unbeaten Woodward, and he hopes to do as well as he did against Waite. He also has his eye on the state title, which he thinks might be a pretty nice present on his 19th birthday, which comes around Saturday.

Tommy Carney, Canton McKinley's great set-shot artist, celebrated his 19th birthday yesterday by scoring 12 points to lead the way to victory over Martins Ferry, but three Class B boys with the same incentive didn't fare so well. They were Howard and John Thompson, Sandusky St. Marys twins, who were in on a 23-22 setback at the hands of Amanda, and Eugene Jenkins of Kitts Hill, which lost to Holgate by 48-35. Jack Augsten, Akron South guard, observes his 18th birthday Saturday.

Nears Record
Huddleston, in scoring 22 points, was not the only one to come within three of a tournament record in the opening round. While he slipped up on the mark of 25 set by Akron North's Ed Sadowski in 1935, Robert Shrider of Class B Glenford came as close to the Class B record of 28, set by Ronnie Peters of Lawrenceville in 1933.

Shrider pounded the hoop for 25 points and the day's high mark. New Carlisle of Clark county, in romping over Waynesburg 53 to 35, was only five points away from the all-time high of 58 set in 1935 by the famed Waterloo Wonders as they scurried to their second straight Class B crown.

Back of Huddleston in the Class A scoring sector yesterday were Warren Bell of Findlay with 20; Wyndol Gray of Akron South and Willie Garland of Columbus Central with 18; Barker of New Philadelphia with 14; and Hake of Cincinnati Woodward, McClain of Bellevue and Hildreth of Bellefontaine with 13 each.

Shrider was far ahead in Class B, but Hood of Canfield collected 20, Kouse of New Carlisle 19, Max of Holgate and Saplenton of Kitts Hill 16 each, and Fowler of Hanover 15.

All the clubs swung over to the state fairgrounds Coliseum for today's play, following the first round in which the "B" games were offered at Ohio State university's gym.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, March 15.—Already the Cincinnati papers are telling the fans not to let those Grapefruit league beatings get 'em down. Dave O'Brien will marry his sweet-heart, Miss Frances Buxter, as soon as she graduates from Texas Christian in June. Bill Hayes, the millionaire umpire, dropped 35 pounds tolling in the Piedmont league last summer—and won't be back. The colorful Fordham-St. Mary's football rivalry (with two years to go) will be dropped as a result of the S. P. Madigan ouster. The south will get a few peeks at Bill De Correvont, the grid star, when the Northwestern U. baseball team begins a Dixie tour next week.

One-Minute Interview
Leo Durocher: "Red Evans and Boots Poffenberger are two of God's noble creatures whom I couldn't know how to dislike."

They were both alike except in one respect. That was in their arithmetic. If each had 18 beers, Evans would admit 18. But Boots never could remember more than four."

Pablo Nurmi and Talisto Maki don't ride in taxis to save dough for the Finns, but neither will pass an orange juice stand without stopping for at least two refills. Jimmy Braddock heads west soon for refereeing dates in Cleveland and Des Moines. Bob Carpenter, sole survivor of Terry Tech, the baseball school Bill Terry ran at Pensacola in 1936, is trying out with Jersey City. Louis V. Galento in Philly during the G. O. P. convention is strictly a fairy tale.

Louis fights only three more times this year—against Paycheck in the Garden and in the Yankee stadium in June and September. Today's Guest Star
Jack M'ey, N. Y. Post: "Finland has signed and so has Dizzy Dean. Peace, brother, it's wonderful."

Rep. Ambrose Kennedy, who blasted boxing in a magazine piece, has been invited to sit in on a meeting of the N. Y. commission and observe how the game is run here. How?
The reason Joey Archibald is giving Harry Jeffra and not Pete Scalzo that feather-weight title shot is this: When Archibald and Jeffra mixed it up in Washington, everybody said it was a phonous bonous and that Jeffra should have won. Archibald wants to go back down there and show them.

Modern Forty-Niner
Nomination for the most even hitter in baseball is Alex Kampouris, late of the Reds and Giants, now with Newark. He batted: 249 in N. L. in 1937; 249 in N. L. in 1938; 249 in N. L. in 1939; which we would say is about his average.

Social note: Archduke Otto paid a call to the Associated Press offices yesterday, giving this department its first glimpse of royalty since the last time Babe Ruth went to the bike race.

SCHROEDER TO START SPRING GRID PRACTICE

Football Squad Is Slated To Open Training Monday

Weather reports these days are of particular interest to Carl F. Schroeder, football coach at Salem High school.

The reason: Schroeder plans to start the Quakers' spring football practice next Monday, and he hopes to have the initial workout at Tolerton's field on the Depot rd., although prospects for outdoor training at the present time are anything but promising.

The weather, be it snow or rain, will not alter Schroeder's plans to start spring practice, but it will in all probability force him to conduct the early workouts indoors.

Four-Week Program
A four-week practice grind has been mapped out for the squad which will represent the Quakers in district gridiron wars next fall. Workouts will be held daily in the school gym until weather permits transfer of practice to Tolerton's field.

Schroeder has invited holdovers from last year's varsity squad and the best of the junior varsity crop to report for practice. Equipment has already been issued to about 15 players.

The spring grid workouts will not conflict with Coach Fred Cope's track practice since the football drills will be completed before the track season opens. This will be the first year the Quakers have had spring football practice since 1938.

Schroeder is a strong advocate of spring practicing, believing that more good can be done a team with a four-week spring training program than by starting practice two weeks early in the fall when the days are still hot. The Quakers' fall practice this year will start Sept. 1, rather than the second week in August as it did last year.

Eight Lettermen Back
Among the holdovers from last year's varsity who are expected to be on hand for the spring workouts are eight lettermen, including Co-Captains Marvin and McVinn Wukotich, twin brothers and All-County choices last fall. Other lettermen available as a foundation for Schroeder's 1940 team are Carroll Greene, Bob Malloy, George Baillie, Bob Scullion, Johnny Volio and Felix DiAntonio.

Lettermen lost to the team by graduation this June are Joe Vander, Dick Beck, Leonard Piersol and Charles Tolp. Another letterman, Don West would have been eligible for the team next fall, but he recently dropped out of school.

Jesse Owens Hopes To Regain Standing
CLEVELAND, March 15.—Jesse Owens, former Ohio State university speedster and hero of the 1936 Olympics, hopes to regain his amateur standing in time to compete in a Finnish relief track meet here March 29-30.

He was suspended by the A. A. U. for failure to make an exhibition trip with American athletes in Europe after the 1936 Olympic games, and later turned professional. He has made repeated attempts to gain amateur reinstatement.

Jimmy Lee, northwestern Ohio A. A. U. secretary, said Owens has a good chance to appear on the track program featuring Taisio Maki of Finland.

Joe McCarthy Will Use Only Half Dozen Yanks In Major League's All-Star Game

By GALYE TALBOT

TAMPA, Fla., March 15.—Marse Joe McCarthy has agreed, as a sort of compromise, to use only five or six New York Yankees in his starting line-up against the down-trodden National leaguers in the all-star game for the benefit of the relief fund here Sunday.

Joe could, of course, have nominated the entire Yankee lineup for the benefit tussle, but the manager of the world champs bowed to public opinion to the extent of naming three members of the Boston Red Sox—tentatively—to start the titanic engagement.

Joe's choices, announced last night, include Joe Gordon, Red Rolfe, Charlie Keller, Joe DiMaggio, and Bill Dickey of the regular Yankee line-up. The three Red Sox named were Jimmy Fox, Ted Williams and Joe Cronin.

Manager Bill McKeehn of the Cincinnati Reds, who has been placed in charge of the National league forces for Sunday's game, divided his starting brigade more equitably. Perhaps Bill still thinks this is an amateur tournament, though he should know much better after what happened to him in the last World series.

Bill said he would start Morris Aronovich of the Phillies in left field, followed by Cockey Lavagetto of Brooklyn at third base, Mel Ott of the Giants in right field, John Mize of St. Louis at first base, and so on.

McKeehn would a lot rather have his own Bill Werber on third base Sunday than all the Lavagettos in Brooklyn. But McKeehn still thinks, in the naive manner of the National leaguers, that an all-star game should bring as wide a representation as possible from the clubs. McCarthy, the realist, throws in the best men at his command and wins.

Ernie Lombardi of Cincinnati will catch for the National leaguers, with Demaree of the Giants in center field, Cuccinello of Boston at second and Bill Jurges of the Giants at short. Their starting pitcher will be either Paul Derringer or Buck Walters of Cincinnati.

McCarthy more cagey, said his starting choice would lie between Ruffing and Gomez of the Yankees, Lefty Grove of Boston, Burk Newsum and Tommy Bridges of Detroit, and Dutch Leonard of Washington. All he would say for sure was that Bob Feller of Cleveland would not start.

Ship Sinks, Dumps Cargo, Floats Again

(By United Press)
 EL PASO, Tex.—The sight of a ship coming up from the bottom three hours after it had been sunk is termed by Lieut. Charles Coldwell as the most unusual sight he has witnessed during his service in the navy.
 Coldwell related the tale while visiting his home on leave. He was aboard a U. S. naval vessel nine miles off the coast of North Carolina when the schooner A. Ernest Mills was rammed and sunk by another ship.
 Three hours later the schooner came back to the surface, port side up. Its cargo of West India fish salt had dissolved, leaving the vessel with enough buoyancy to return to the surface.

"SELF MADE GIRL" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

SYNOPSIS

Linda Perry, youngest of the five poverty-stricken Perry's lives with her family in a small frame house in the country near Philadelphia. She has no idea of social distinctions and the heartaches that will inevitably be hers when she and her socially prominent friends grow up. The first blow falls when ambitious Mrs. Wagner breaks up the friendship between her daughter, Ruth and Linda. Then Linda's best friend, Constance Scott, is sent away to private school. At fifteen, in the background of school affairs, Linda knows loneliness for the first time. But Connie is loyal. During summer vacation the two attend a country club dance with Glenn and Everett McAllister. Linda adores Glenn from the first. After a wonderful summer together Glenn returns to school and Constance goes to France with her mother. It is rumored that the Scotts are separating. To Linda, nothing matters except Glenn's infrequent letters. Then the Perry's real misfortunes begin. The grandmother dies, Mrs. Perry breaks her hip and Linda leaves school to nurse her. Mr. Perry is killed in an explosion at the mill. Sick with worry and a daggery, Linda's only relaxation is her friendship with George Cooke, who wants to marry her. Glenn McAllister has not returned. Linda realizes she may never see him again. So following her mother's death, she becomes engaged to George, and goes to live with her sister Claudine.

CHAPTER X

An engaged girl it was quite exciting. Without the excitement Linda really didn't know how she'd have got through the trying days of packing, sorting, getting rid of the accumulation of all their years of living in the old house.

There was little of value, little worth keeping really, but everything, every worn chair, every picture, every knickknack, even the pots and pans of the kitchen, had its association and memory. The best of the furniture went to Claudine, who was only too glad to get it. Lawrence's wife accepted a few of the dishes. The second-hand furniture man from Chester bought a few things, and Bert and George had a bon-fire going from morning until night, every Saturday and Sunday for three weeks.

By the fifteenth of November the last of the arrangements were made. There was no more excuse for staying on. Bert had found a room close to his work and was anxious to get settled. Linda watched the second-hand man moving out the last of the furniture.

"Come on, dear," George said. He was going to drive her into Philadelphia, to Claudine's.

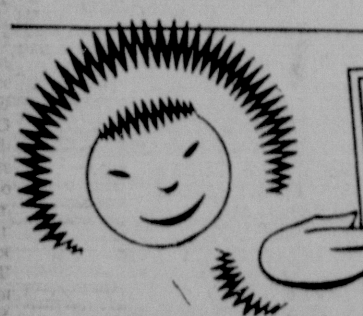

"Wait a minute—I want to run upstairs, and see if everything's out. No! Wait for me—please, George!"

It was silly to go up again. There was nothing left behind and she knew it. Just an empty house, four walls and a roof where once a family had lived. An empty house with worn floors and bright patches of flowered wallpaper in squares and circles and rectangles on the dull, faded walls. Places where pictures had hung. And a whole wall of bright pink roses marking the place where Grandma P. O'ne's wide, high walnut bed had stood in her little room.

"Linda!"

Linda swallowed hard. "Coming," she called.

Her high heels clattered as she ran down the uncarpeted stairs.

SEE THE NEW AIR-CONDITIONED KELVINATOR

She handed the key to George, and he locked the door.

Together they walked over to his car, piled high with her belongings. Suit cases, hat boxes, and a pile of phonograph records. She kept her eyes straight ahead. She would not let herself look back.

There were just two bedrooms in Claudine's cheap, inconvenient little flat. Claudine, Chester and the new baby slept in the "front room" and Linda had a cot in the "back room" in which Jean and Sue had their little beds. Junior slept on a couch in the living room.

From the first it was plain that the arrangement was an unfortunate one. Chester and Linda resented each other furiously. Chester thought that Linda was a spoiled, selfish child, and said so. Linda blamed Chester for all of Claudine's troubles, which were legion.

Claudine's very looks, to begin with. Here she was, faded and on the shelf, at 34, and Chester, two years older, still strong and handsome, and boasting about it.

And the way Claudine spoiled him! One left-over dainty, and it was saved for Chester. Money for one winter coat, and Chester got it. No money for groceries, and it was because Chester had needed it for spending money.

"I can't go around with empty pockets ALL the time," he said. "Other fellows buy me a drink, or a lunch, and what am I supposed to do, hide my hands in my pockets?"

Linda listened, her mouth tight and hard, her blue eyes contemptuous.

"Tell her to keep her mouth shut, because I'm not going to take any of her lip," Chester told his wife angrily, after one of these explanations, which he really made for himself, for his conscience did hurt.

"But Linda never says anything! She's always been a quiet little thing!"

"Yeh? Well, she thinks plenty. And you can tell her to cut it out, because I won't take it!"

"But, honey, if she doesn't say anything, how can I—"

"Oh shut up!" the man cried, kicking at one of the babies' toys that was left on the floor.

Linda, forced to overhear by the very thinness of the partition, shut her mouth tighter than ever. If I were married to a man like that I'd KILL him, she thought!

And then there was young Chester, or Junior, as they called him, to keep them all settling. "I don't hafta," he'd answer Claudine pertinently, when she told him to do something. "You ain't my mother!"

When he teased the 4-year-old, pretending he was going to cut off her curls, or throw her dolls out of the window, and the child cried broken-heartedly. Claudine pretended not to see. "It just makes him worse, to cross him," she told Linda, "and I don't want to be a mean step-mother."

Words flew into Linda's mouth. What kind of a mother are you, she wanted to scream, letting him market your children miserably just so he won't run yelling to his father, and you'll have a fight? It's cowardice, that's what it is, cowardice!

The effort of silence made her nervous and unhappy, and accomplished nothing. Her blazing eyes, as she silently swooped to rescue one of the sobbing girls, the way she ostentatiously waited on Claudine, and ignored Chester, spoke more eloquently than words.

Claudine felt that she couldn't stand much more of it. "Why don't you and George get married now?" she asked. "You've got it all planned, and you haven't any place to see him here, with Junior in bed in the sitting room at nine and the house so small anyway—"

"Maybe I ought to," Linda said. "I'll think about it."

With the bedroom door locked against curious baby eyes, she gave herself up to a good old-fashioned cry. Then feeling better, she bathed her eyes, and sat down to write a letter to George.

"But you sent for me," he kept saying. "You sent for me! You said it was important!"

He was sitting very close to her, so close that Linda could feel the heat of his body next to hers. His kind, red face was anxious. His torn-rimmed spectacles glittered.

She looked at him, this George Cooke, who wanted to marry her, when she had thought she wanted to marry.

She knew, now that he was here, and the date was set, that she couldn't do it.

She took off the small diamond, that for nearly two months she had worn on the third finger of her left hand. "Here, George, I—I'm sorry."

"You don't really mean you're breaking our engagement?"

She nodded, her eyes brimming. "But WHY?"

She shook her head, not daring to speak.

"Is there somebody else?"

"Oh, no. No! There's nobody!"

"But Linda, if there's nobody—"

"No, that isn't it. I don't know why. Maybe I'm going crazy. I'm unhappy enough here so that you'd think I'd want to marry anybody just to get away, and really I do like you, ever so much. I WANT to marry you! Truly I do. But I can't go on this way. We've got to break it."

Out of his pocket George brought a small leather box, lined with white satin, and showed the platinum wedding ring, set with eight diamonds in an orange-blossom scroll, to match the engagement ring.

"You see, I bought the two at once. I thought—"

Linda was crying in earnest now. What would poor George do with TWO rings. If it were just one it would be bad enough, but two—

"And there isn't another girl I'd ever want to give them to."

It was true. It was all true. It was all her fault. No excuse for her. She ought to go on with it and marry him since it was what he wanted. Twice she opened her mouth to say the words he wanted to hear, but they wouldn't come.

After a long while he stood up. He didn't know what to do about the rings. "Seems as though you might as well keep them anyway—that is, if you like them. They were kind of pretty, I thought. Maybe the stone wasn't big enough—"

"Oh, no—they're lovely, George. I do love them. But please—for my sake—take them away. Please do!"

He put them in the little white box, carefully.

"Well, good-bye, Linda."

She knew he wanted to kiss her good-bye, and she wanted him to have what he wanted, but she couldn't do it. She couldn't.

She was still sitting on the sofa, Junior's bed, when the three of them, Junior, Chester and Claudine, came in from the movies.

Claudine, seeing the traces of tears, went to her, motioning the others away, and for once they went, unquestioningly.

"What is it, Linda? Do you feel bad, because you're getting married? You mustn't. George is a good man and you'll have things nice. I know it's a little strange at first and I don't want to have you think I was rushing it. I only thought—"

Linda smiled gently. "You didn't rush me, Claudine. I'm just not going to get married. I told him tonight."

"You're not getting married?" The tired, worried, elder sister couldn't keep the shrill reproach out of her voice. She didn't know that her eyes were hurt and frightened, and that she glanced involuntarily towards the door behind which Chester waited.

"No," Linda said. "No, I'm not getting married. But I'm not staying on either. I'm going to New York, to work."

In the morning Linda was gone. She didn't go to bed that night.

She sat in the little rocking chair by the one small window. It was terribly cold, and she wrapped herself in a quilt from the bed. I ought to pack, she thought.... I ought to plan. I've got to plan something.... But she sat, rocking, her mind refusing to function.

Once little Jean stirred in her sleep, and she got up and covered the child carefully. She'd grown to love the little thing, and who'd protect her from spoil, bullying Junior if she went away?

Hazards of Walking On Roads Stressed By Motor Club Head

"Pedestrians at night face great hazards, especially when walking along highways where there are no sidewalks," A. P. Morris, manager of the Columbiana County Motor club, declared today in describing new safety educational materials being distributed to the schools of this area as part of the club's safety education program.

"Feature, in the material is the March AAA-OSAA safety poster in colors, depicting children of Finland in colorful native dress walking along a highway on the left, facing traffic. This rule should be followed by all pedestrians who have occasion to walk on highways or streets where there are no sidewalks."

"This poster is one of the unique

"Safety 'Round the World' series issued this school year by the AAA-OSAA. The series emphasizes the need for following common-sense safety rules in use of streets and highways is universal. The posters have proved exceedingly popular with teachers and children.

Morris also urged pedestrians when walking on the highways at night, to wear or carry something white. "Statistics included in the new AAA-OSAA publication, 'Pedestrian Protection,'" he said, "show that in one eastern state on rural highways, one out of every five pedestrian accidents at night, and one out of every 13 by day resulted in a fatality, thus emphasizing the need for particular caution at night."
